Music For You and Your Baby

Pre-Natal Classes

*Suzuki Music Classes
For Parent and Baby
Children from birth to 3 years*

Suzuki Music Classes for Children from birth to 3 years

After a child is born, his/her brain continues to develop rapidly during the first three years. Babies who are exposed to music form stronger neural connections and are therefore more able to handle higher-level thinking skills later in life. The Suzuki Baby Music curriculum was specially designed with the needs of the developing child in mind. Children ages newborn through three have increased their vocabularies, achieved perfect pitch and, most important of all, grown closer to their parents in a nurturing environment.

Pre-Natal Music and Relaxation Classes for Expectant Mothers

The sense of hearing is fully developed by the fourth month in the womb and babies are born able to recognize their parents' voice.

What types of music are most beneficial to the developing child? Current research indicates visible benefits to babies who listen to music pre-natally.

In addition, a stronger bond forms between parent and child. Learn more in this four-week class for expectant moms (and dads!)

What parents say about Suzuki Baby Music:

"My daughter enjoys the circle songs and singing. She loves to dance and sing and it showed today in class."

"My son listens to all of the instruments being played. When we get home, he wants to do things he learns in the class."

"I was surprised at how much he loved listening to the performance and story time."

Dr. Shinichi Suzuki said:

"...inspiration and interest are acquired involuntarily by an infant from everything he sees and hears, like a seed that is planted..."

He compared human learning to making a plaster cast:

"At first, it is wet and gooey. The plaster soon hardens. After the hardened form is made, nothing can be changed about it. The heart and talents of a person are the same."
